THE BULLETIN'S ILLUSTRATED BOOK.

It is not surprising that a great deal of interest is felt in the pictures which are to be a feature of the 25th anniversary Jubilee book—what they are to be and what they are to represent. Portraits of the officers and chairmen of committees and the guests of the city will number a score or two and then there will be photographs of the decorated streets, the parade, the performances and objects of special interest, it is expected, will make about 50 pages. Where there are large assemblages of people the pictures will be made large enough to make the identification of citizens possible. There are quite a number of these photographs which will be given a full page.

It is the purpose of The Bulletin to make this book so attractive that it will be in prompt demand when it appears in December for delivery.

The Bulletin has had submitted to it for examination about 200 photographs already, and expects to have others submitted.

The letterpress and the illustrations will represent the best part of the anniversary celebration, and the book will be prized for its accuracy and value by Norwich people everywhere.

Order books on the coupon to be found in The Bulletin's advertising columns.

WHAT WE CANNOT FORESEE.

The incoming of the motor carriage was heralded as the beginning of the end of the horse and now, fifteen years after, there are 25 per cent. more horses than there were then, and their average value has increased over 150 per cent. The Breeders' Gazette calls attention to the fact that there were 15,933,418 horses in 1895, the average value being $35 a head. In the last year the reports show 20,640,000 horses valued at $35 a head. Horses have also doubled in number and in value in the same period.

This shows that as a forecaster in this respect man was not keensighted—he saw in his forefront what was not there. It is more than likely that the horse will be the old reliable after the automobile craze is a thing of the past.

THERE ARE NO PENNIES.

The fact that a penny is a two-cent piece has often been called to public notice; and, yet, even the bankers of the country are sending in orders for Lincoln pennies instead of "Lincoln cents." The manager of the mint is not inclined to notice letters which apply for pennies.

It is common in small stores to hear calls for a penny's worth of this or that; and it is understood to mean a cent's worth, and the customer expects no more, but it is not a correct order, and there is no such thing as making the two words synonymous. It is not a very important matter, anyway, but those ordering will have to call for Lincoln cents if they expect to get them, since the government rules that there is no such coin as a Lincoln penny.

THE NEW COMMANDER IN CHIEF.

The new commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, ex-Governor Van Sant of Minnesota, is a live man with both a military and political record. He was a vigorous executive of Minnesota, and as such participated in the preliminary campaign against the Northern Securities "merger." At one time he was said to cherish ambitions pointed toward the White House, but these died young. He did enough, however, that was popular to hold public attention for a time, and that of itself is something of an achievement.

GOOD ROADS.

The working out of the good roads system in New England is proceeding gradually, with Massachusetts setting a good example by her persistent work upon the trunk lines, but it will be several years before her principal trunk lines are completed. Where done there will be 800 miles of these trunk lines, which will represent an expenditure of $8,000,000.

A writer for the Boston Transcript notes that a long distance traveler can go from Boston to the New York line through Worcester, Springfield and Pittsfield, from Boston to the Rhode Island line, up the North shore to the New Hampshire line, down the Cape, through the Connecticut valley, along the northern boundary of the state, from Boston to Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill, and from Haverhill to Newburyport, from Boston to New Bedford and Fall River or over other main routes over improved roads all the way and most of them will be of state construction.

The New York Times of the 11th inst., referring to the good roads in New Jersey and New York, said:

"New Jersey, which already has many miles of admirable roads, including not a few constructed with reference to the character of present-day traffic, is constantly adding to the number, and its latest plan is for a dustless highway from Trenton to the coast. New York state, too, has spent not a few millions for roads that were good while they lasted, and it has in view the spending of other millions, but the fact remains that we lag far behind several of our neighbors in this highly important respect and that not infrequently the traveler can tell when he crosses the state line because then he exchanges tolerable or good roads for those that would be open to just criticism. If found in the outskirts of a mining camp or even of an African village.

"And the very worst of our roads, at least for the automobilist, are those which once were good, but have been allowed to go to ruin for lack of timely repairs. We have not yet arrived at the point of effectively realizing that a good road needs attention from the day of its completion, and that if it is to remain good more or less work must be done on each mile of it every day thereafter. Our plan is to do nothing until it becomes practically impassable, and then to build a road."

"Brilliant examples of what results from following that criminally expensive policy are to be found in particular abundance in the immediate vicinity of New York city, and not a few of them are within the metropolitan limits."

REPORTORIAL IMAGERY.

It is being shown that what President Taft cannot do in attracting to Beverly the attention of the curious, the live reporter can. "The woman in white" at Beverly, as presented to view by the correspondents, has put the whole country into a state of impatience to find out who this woman is, why she follows the president's automobile upon a bicycle, and what her purpose is. She may be a woman seeking a reprieve for a lover, she may be a lunatic, or she may be a nervous newspaper woman who follows close that nothing worth gossiping about may escape her. President Taft does not appear to be annoyed by the way in which she shadows him, and the civil service men do not regard her as dangerous. "The woman in white" at Beverly is not she of the novel by the same title.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Germany does not like the tariff bill and that is one of the best evidences that it has real merit.

The last flying machine is called the ornithopter, because it is framed after the wings of the eagle.

Evelyn Nesbit Thaw seems inclined now to make her marriage with Harry Thaw end like a bunco game.

The Lincoln cents at Chicago are in demand, two for one. There you have it, a penny for a Lincoln.

The national building estimates were six and a half millions better than the figures of July, one year ago.

The reckless users of city water never appear to have in mind the fact that they are not the only consumers.

The rich father who has bought his daughter a balloon must have been impressed by her high-flying tendencies.

Should the Connecticut troops break into Boston on Sunday, it would give Boston a more rudely Sabbath day complexion.

Thaw's mother has shown that she can write a proclamation when the spirit moves that is worthy of a better cause.

The tramps take to everything free but a free bath, and in consequence of this they are now running away from Detroit.

These long reaches and earth-drying winds between showers are not just what is needed to round out the summer right.

Happy thought for today: The soloist who sings his own praises is never put on a salary because of his singing ability.

The city that is first to suppress joy-riding will be distinguished, and its recipe for curing the evil will be in general demand.

Emma Goldman thinks that a rope about her neck will be necessary to stop her talking. What does anyone wish to stop her for?

It must be admitted that even Thaw's "exaggerated ego" is tame compared with some that are loose in all parts of the country.

Speaker Cannon is about the only man in the country who keeps repeating that the new tariff bill just suits him. He seems to have faith in hypnotic suggestion.

Minister Wu will go back to China with more good Eastern ideas than ever, and he will spread them for the good of his country until he shall be sent forth again.

The agitators against the grasping monopolies of the country are called in "Varmount" the "Hawbucks." If they act in concert they ought to make them "Geel."

NEW BOOKS.

"Are the Dead Alive?" by Fremant Rider, New York, B. W. Dodge & Co. publishers.

This is the latest contribution to the literature of physical research and is a popular review of recent progress made in hunting down the apparent facts of phenomena which have converted to psychicism, if not spiritualism, some of the greatest scientists of Europe, and are now attracting widespread interests in every intelligent center of the globe. Much of the material has already appeared in The Delinquent, but now it appears in an expanded and more permanent form accompanied by pictures, some of which have never before been published. Illustrations are admirably almost every phase of the subject.

At the outset Mr. Rider disarms the skeptical critic by frankly admitting that the cry of fraud which the average man makes in the presence of so-called supernatural phenomena is, on the whole, abundantly justified. The history of mediumship is one long disheartening record of deception and exposure. But he says, if we immediately dismiss in disgust the whole subject, we are gravely in danger of the opposite error, and in support of this assertion he quotes from the most prominent authorities on the subject, like Thomas Jay Hudson, Alfred Russel Wallace and other eminent investigators who are little liable to be hoodwinked by fraud or biased by personal feeling. His own conclusions are surprising, perhaps to those who have never suspected the slightest consensus of scientific opinion on this matter is that, "There are now in all the world but one or two scientific men of the first rank who deny the actual probability of the future life; while a large proportion claim that this life has been actually proved by the occurring phenomena of spiritualism."

This book provides interesting reading for all and is assuring to a great many.

NEEDLEWORK SUGGESTIONS.

Paris Transfer Pattern No. 8061.

Ladies' lingerie laid design to be transferred to linen, Indian-head cotton or plique and worked with white or colored cotton. A full of lace may be put around the edge just under the scallops, or a full facing of soft lace may be used under the brim, giving in either case that softness and dainty appearance to any face, which is so pleasing. The embroidery on hats is often done in colors to match the gown or suit, and may be preferred. The design may be worked in solid embroidery, which should first be padded, or it should have the leaves done in solid embroidery, the stems in chain stitch and the inside of the petals in eyelet design, outlined with chain stitch.

Price of pattern, 10 cents. Order through The Bulletin Company, Pattern Dept., Norwich, Conn.

Paris Transfer Pattern No. 8064.

Eyelet design for a white collar. 12-14 inches neck measure and 6-14 inches wide in the back to be transferred to linen, duck, cambric, Persian or Victoria, or linen-lawn, batiste, crash or denim, in fact any desired wash material that the maker wishes. If desired the dots may be worked in solid design, the ornament at the ends worked in eyelets and the single eye in simple back or chain stitch. The scalloped edge should be heavily padded, the buttonholes being worked very evenly, otherwise the effect is not good.

Price of pattern, 10 cents. Order through The Bulletin Company, Pattern Dept., Norwich, Conn.

CONCERNING WOMEN.

A suffrage cookery book is among the many bright devices of the Bohemian state suffragists to promote the campaign for the pending woman-suffrage amendment.

A woman was a candidate for the Bohemian parliament at the recent election, and received about 18 per cent. of the total vote. There were so many parties in the field that no candidate got a majority of all the votes, and a second election had to be ordered.

Miss Grace Hodgdon Boutelle, daughter of the late Congressman Boutelle of Bangor, Me., is considered one of the boldest and most uncompromising suffragettes of London. She proudly boasts of having been in prison for a month, as the result of her devotion to the cause.

Miss Margaret J. Benedictson, editor of The Freya, an Icelandic monthly magazine, has organized four suffrage clubs in Iceland in the last 12 months. She has lectured on the subject of equal suffrage in various places throughout the country, and expects more than to double the present number of clubs within the next few months.

A Frenchman in the chamber of deputies would like a law that would protect the working women of France to the extent of allowing them to have control of their own earnings. The husband and wife from the country towns come to Paris, leaving their children with the grandparents, and then both work, the husband taking their wife's earnings and handing over to her, generally in a good way. The women themselves do not seem to be asking for a change.

FRUIT AND FLOWERS FOR CENTERPIECE.

Nothing makes a prettier centerpiece for the summer table than a combination of fruit and flowers, and especially, but unless skillfully arranged, it is

Is Your Room in the Class

Known as "Dust Catcher?"

Did you ever hear of them? Or what is worse, do you know them from experience? "Dust catchers" are bad enough when it comes to cleaning, but there is another side which is worse.

In the hall, dining room, parlor, library, the superficially clean room that serves as such a magnet for flying particles of dust annoy only the maid or the housewife.

But it is in the bedroom that the other side runs itself. Here they are unhealthy as they are unnecessary.

Not even the "fresh air crank" would denounce the banishment of the sleeping rooms of the boy and girl of the things that really make for attractive decoration.

From the chandeliers, mantelpieces and every available place dangle dance cards, programmes and souvenirs. Pictures, so called from a description of more fitting name, cut from magazines or given away with a pound of tea or a package of cigarettes, plaster the walls, backed up with pins and often the edges not even cut smooth.

College and school pennants, splendid decorations when properly hung, stuck up indiscriminately, generally over the one framed picture in the room; if it can boast this.

Bits of ribbon, tin horns, dolls and cracklebacks without end, all much the worse for wear, each with the memory of some delightful evening, when John took you out for the first time, or when you met Mary.

Souvenirs are all very well in their place, but their place is not here. At night you have to sleep and breathe the dust accumulated on all these unnecessary things.

apt to have a rather buffet sort of look.

The colorings, while not too startling in contrast, should be neither dull nor commonplace.

Golden oranges and ruby tinted flowers, for example, are a little too brilliant to suggest coolness.

A favorite method of arranging the two is by means of a large, low, wide-mouthed dish.

This dish, which is intended to hold small fruits, built into a pyramid, is surrounded by slender vases.

Grapes lend themselves admirably to this style of decoration, and a mound of Malaga is particularly effective.

In conjunction with Malaga grapes a small hedge of La France roses may be successfully used.

Velvety, carmine-tinted peaches are another fruit suggested for decorative purposes.

These go well with any sort of green, and for this reason vases of delicate ferns should be allied with them.

WEAR LOW NECKS.

The waist with a V-shaped neck is by far the most comfortable for those inclined to be full.

Finish the "V" with a narrow, flat trimming all the way round. Speaking of trimming, it is well to keep the eyes open when passing through the stores these days. Short lengths of exquisite trimmings are being sold at bargain prices. The ingenious woman can make splendid use of these as trimming for the winter gowns.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Tincture of iodine applied with a camel's hair brush is a soothing application for unbroken chilblains and for painting on the gum for an aching tooth.

Doctors are advising daily household work as a cure for nerves. Dusting, sweeping and bedmaking bring into play a number of important muscles, and the muscle movements are exactly the same as the expensive physical culture exercises so fashionable of late years.

Hot olive oil will relieve the lameness in the feet which is caused by long standing. It is also excellent for a skin which has been made hard and dry by exposure to the weather. A little oil rubbed into the skin at night makes it soft and smooth. The ancient Egyptian beauties knew its value and used it almost altogether as an unguent.

It is a bad thing for an adult to lose sleep, but it is worse for a child. To cut short the time the immature brain needs for rest and repair is to stunt the growth irreparably. Therefore, says Sir James Crichton Brown, the English physician, parents should set their faces firmly against home study.

When home study is insisted upon, the studying is, as a rule, done at night, and brain work at night is almost sure to poison the child's sleep, robbing it of the rest which is so essential to have. "The present increase in nervous and mental diseases noted by recent observers is largely due," says Sir James, "to insufficient sleep."

It would be wiser to let the children learn less if thereby a better brain power is assured for the future."

CANNING CORN.

Get good corn, not too ripe, cut it from the cob and scrape out the milk. Fill jars with corn and fasten lids on tightly. Place a wooden rack or straw in the bottom of the wash boiler, put in the jars and fill the boiler with water to the top of the jars and boil for two hours. Remove the lids and quickly fasten them again, then boil for two hours more. If tin cans are used the lids must be punctured. The boiler must be well covered while the corn boils, for steam cooks more quickly than hot water, it is advisable to can a little at a time.

CHUTNEY SAUCE.

Chutney sauce is delicious with fish and meat and is made by the following recipe: Put eight ounces each of chopped tart apples, sliced tomatoes, salt, brown sugar, seeded raisins in a jar. Add four ounces of powdered ginger, one quart of lemon juice. Mix well and cover. Keep in warm place and stir every day for a month, taking care to cover the jar after each stirring. Strain, but do not squeeze too dry. Put away in sealed glass jars or bottles for use. The liquors will make a good flavoring for soups.

GRAPE MARMALADE.

Marmalade made of fox grapes is good. The grapes should be stripped from the stems and put in a wide-mouthed stone jar set in a deep pan of boiling water. Heat until the grapes begin to soften, then stir with a wooden spoon or paddle. When they are thoroughly crushed and broken, rub through a sieve, rejecting the seeds. Measure the pulp and to every pint allow one-half pound of sugar. Put over the fire and boil for half an hour, stirring continually. Put in sealed jars or jelly glasses.

Substitute for Meat.

Cream and butter should be eaten freely by those who do not eat much meat.

They furnish fats for the system. Nuts are excellent as a substitute for meat, but should be eaten at meal.

time, and are more digestible with salt.

3005 MISSES' PRINCESS DRESS.

Paris Pattern No. 3005 — All Seams Allowed.

The waist portion of this simple frock has the fullness supplied by three tucks on the shoulders at the front and back, stitched to yoke depth, a wide box-plait ornamenting the front from yoke to hem. The yoke and skirt portion is made with a deep plaited founce and the net yoke is heavily scalloped, with self colored black braid. Similar braid trims the sleeves and belt, the latter hiding the joining of the waist and skirt portions.

The pattern is in three sizes—13 to 17 years. For a miss of 15 years the dress requires 4 1/2 yards of material 44 inches wide, 7 1/2 yards 24 inches wide, 6 1/2 yards 27 inches wide, 5 yards 44 inches wide or 4 1/2 yards 41 inches wide.

Price of pattern, 10 cents. Order through The Bulletin Company, Pattern Dept., Norwich, Conn.
